Front Cover: "Quick Henry, the Flit!" No, you wouldn't want to exterminate this trio of Moths, which make up the bulk of the DeHavilland Moths which were on display at EAA AirVenture Oshkosh 2003. Budd Davisson's article on the Moths here in the United States starts on page . EAA photo by Lee Ann Abrams, shot with a Canon EOS-1n. EAA photo plane flown by Bruce Moore.

Back Cover: EAA Master Artist John Sarsfield, 6541 St Vrain Rd, Longmont, CO 80503 created this acrylic painting of a moment in time during the 1914 Schneider Cup trials, held in Monaco. The British fielded their diminutive but fast entry in race after first landing and dunking the biplane while it was equipped with a large single float. Cutting the float in half and building a set of more stable twin floats from the single float allowed the Sopwith Tabloid to go on to with the last Schneider Cup race held before the outbreak of WW-I.
